

Environmental policy of the Lapp Group

With its values, the Lapp Group aims to create a customer-oriented, innovative, success-oriented and family-oriented corporate culture.

Our actions are shaped by sustainable decisions and responsibility towards customers, employees, our environment and other third parties.

Compliance with statutory requirements is a given for us, as is actively striving to continually increase our contribution towards protecting the environment.

Particularly in terms of development and manufacture of products, purchasing and logistical processes, this means that

- Our products should be safe and not contain any substances that are harmful to health or the environment.
- Health-impairing and environmentally harmful substances should be avoided in the manufacture of our products.
- We take care to ensure careful handling of resources. Economical consumption of raw materials and energy is important to us, as are the longevity of our products and the ability to recycle them at the end of their useful life.
- We minimise the emissions generated by our activities. We pay particular attention to greenhouse gas emissions and emissions into the ground, water and air that are harmful to health and the environment.
- We minimise waste and dispose of it appropriately.

All employees of all companies of the Lapp Group are responsible for observing this environmental policy and acting accordingly.
