Information on Conflict Minerals Reporting

The Dodd-Frank Act requires all US publicly traded companies to file disclosures and reports with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) related to the use of Conflict Minerals (tin, tantalum, tungsten and gold) in their products.

The Lapp Group is not affected directly by the Dodd-Frank-Act requirements on Conflict Minerals and has no obligation to provide related information. Nonetheless, we support the standardisation of conflict minerals related information in the supply chain.

The Conflict Minerals Reporting Template (CMRT) has been established as a global standard by CFSI, an initiative of the EICC and GeSI. We believe that standardisation of conflict minerals related communication is crucial for keeping the administrative burden at an acceptable level. In this format, suppliers can provide information on smelters in the supply chain. However, such information is often incomplete.

With the standardized CMRT format, the Lapp Group provides structured information on the use of Conflict Minerals. Detailed information on smelters in the supply chain, related to specific products, are not included in that standard information.
